

Capital Cogs

Revolving about the Rotary Club of Albany, N. Y.

WHEEL I

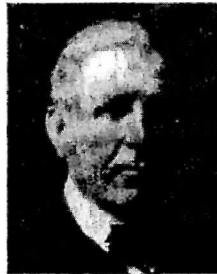

JULY 27, 1921

COG 9

JOHN T. D. BLACKBURN

WILL TELL US OF

ROTARY'S
LESSONS

AND ITS VISIONS

NEXT FRIDAY, JULY 29, AT 12:45 P. M.

JOHN, YOU KNOW, HAS BEEN TO EDINBURGH

Hoot Mon:

Last week Fred deBeer told us how to make baseballs; this week John Blackburn is to tell us how to make highballs. And he promises to tell us more, for he has been across the sea to an International Convention of Rotary at Edinburgh and has come back with his tongue as full of br-r-r's as is Davie Lithgow's.

Writing to President Harlan while on the other side, John said: "It has been a great experience for me and I hope I have absorbed some of its lessons and its visions. The British folk got a new inspiration and vision of what Rotary was and is, and I am sure it has produced an impulse that will throb in all the clubs of this, now, world-wide Brotherhood."

It's going to be a tough job to crowd that month's experience,— going, being there and coming back,— into a twenty-minute talk, but I hope John will find a minute to explain the "three times and out" amendment with reference to attendance.

And John, let me apologize now for not printing your tie in red, but two-color work is so darned expensive, Gates Aufsesser wouldn't stand for it. So please wear a blue suit, a white shirt and your red tie Friday so we'll know you still love the colors, even if they don't let us have Scotch over here. Never mind your kilties.

Yours expectantly,

JACK,
Secretary.